Latinos on Biden’s First 100 Days: A Down Payment on Real Progress
EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

HISTORIC BEGINNING: ENACTMENT OF AMERICAN RESCUE PLAN ACT

In his first 100 days in office, President Biden took steps to address many of the pressing Latino priorities included in our report, The First 100 Days: Latino Inclusion in the Biden Administration’s First Steps. The enactment of the American Rescue Plan (ARP) Act is historic, and by far the most significant action in President Biden’s response to the global pandemic within the first 100 days of his administration. The $1.9 trillion relief package will help millions of Latinos get vaccinated, work and go to school safely, pay their bills, keep a roof over their heads, and feed themselves and their children. Already there are clear signs the ARP is making a difference, as the administration uses the funds to vaccinate Americans more quickly and the underserved more effectively, to sign up the newly uninsured for health coverage, and disburse an estimated $376 billion so far in economic stimulus payments. UnidosUS fought hard for the president’s ARP, and in the end, for Hispanics it was the most consequential of all COVID-19 congressional bills enacted into law, especially because of the more expansive aid it included for mixed-status families and Latino children.

But securing passage of the ARP is only the first step. In many ways, what lies ahead for the administration is even more difficult and will require much more of the president’s team. Implementation of the ARP must leverage every dollar of the $1.9 million enacted to carry out the ARP’s multiple mandates and to ensure that the relief reaches the most vulnerable and underserved, a key measure of equity. For Latinos, this means investing in a national plan and mobilizing all of the government’s resources to remove long-entrenched obstacles that often prevent Hispanic families from accessing the health and economic supports for which they qualify.

* The terms “Hispanic” and “Latino” are used interchangeably by the U.S. Census Bureau and throughout this document to refer to persons of Mexican, Puerto Rican, Cuban, Central and South American, Dominican, Spanish, and other Hispanic descent; they may be of any race. This document may also refer to this population as “Latinx” to represent the diversity of gender identities and expressions that are present in the community.
analysis that follows celebrates the victories we achieved in the first 100 days of the Biden administration, we also highlight the following three priorities for going forward: equitable implementation, equitable representation, and racial equity.

1. EQUITABLE IMPLEMENTATION

The American Rescue Plan Act is only as effective as its implementation. It is well-documented that even when eligible, Latinos don’t benefit from or take full advantage of the benefits available to them. Reasons for this vary, including disinformation, fear of government, reluctance to accept what is seen as a government handout, and insufficient culturally competent communications strategies.

- Immigrants and Essential Workers. Over the course of the pandemic, immigrants and mixed-status families have suffered from inequitable relief. Millions of workers who file taxes using an ITIN were once again denied stimulus payments, despite their significant contributions as frontline workers supporting our nation through the pandemic. This includes the more than five million undocumented essential workers who have physically and financially borne the brunt of the coronavirus and our country’s economic recovery. In 2021, UnidosUS is working to lead national immigration efforts with a focus to ensure protection from deportation; seek work authorization; and achieve changes in status, including legalization for as many as possible and ideally a path to citizenship, for undocumented Latinos.

- Latinas. Closing the wealth gap begins with ensuring that Latinas, who were already making only 55 cents for every dollar paid to a white non-Hispanic man, have the resources they need to ensure an inclusive recovery. Latinas were among the first workers to lose jobs and wages in March and April 2020. By April 2020, their unemployment rate reached a historic high of 20%, wiping out a decade’s worth of job gains, resulting in double the number of Latinas over white women who had to deplete their savings as a result. Our April 2021 report, Closing the Latina Wealth Gap: Building an Inclusive Economic Recovery After COVID, delves deeper into the systemic and pandemic-related impact on Latina wealth.
• Undocumented Children. Millions of undocumented children were left out of economic relief and health coverage, deep harms that are compounded by the denial of their undocumented parents to our nation’s safety net, including unemployment aid and cash support, health coverage, and nutrition benefits. The ARP also failed to affirmatively include undocumented college students, including those enrolled in DACA, in the emergency support offered to other students facing serious hardships during the pandemic. Expecting a disproportionate impact on the educational outcomes of Latino students as a result, UnidosUS is working to secure one billion dollars from stimulus funding, and two billion in the FY22 federal budget to address the academic and language needs of English learners, and low-income and vulnerable students.

The exclusion of so many Latinos from resources to meet their basic needs undermines President Biden’s commitment to equity and inclusion, threatens Hispanic families and their children with physical harm and financial ruin, and will be a drag on the economy and our nation’s recovery. Through UnidosUS’s Esperanza Hope for All Campaign, we are focused on an inclusive economic recovery that addresses the health, economic, and educational disparities exacerbated by the COVID-19 pandemic.

UnidosUS commits to continue its advocacy on Capitol Hill and through its nearly 300 Affiliates across the country to fight for 1) ensuring that Latino communities reap the full benefits of the American Rescue Plan, 2) a path to citizenship for essential workers and their families, including DACA and TPS-holders, and 3) an equitable recovery that prioritizes breaking down systemic barriers to wealth-building and raising up those who have been left behind for decades.
2. EQUITABLE REPRESENTATION

The United States government should reflect the diversity of our country’s Latino population. Nevertheless, history has proven that this doesn’t happen on its own. Proyecto 20%, a partnership between UnidosUS and eight national Latino organizations, calls for 20%, or roughly 800, of President Biden’s 4,000 political appointees to identify as Latino, thus representing the American population. The president has already named the largest number of first-term Hispanic cabinet members in U.S. history, but is far from fulfilling our petition as part of the Proyecto 20% campaign. Without qualified Hispanics at all levels of government service, large numbers of our community will continue to be left out and not fully incorporated in the administration’s priorities.

UnidosUS is committed to driving at least a year-long effort to lay down this visionary goal for success, and to work collectively with allies to make this goal a reality.

3. RACIAL EQUITY

The Biden administration has made a public commitment to equity and inclusion. In addition to the health, economic, and educational disparities exacerbated by the pandemic, there are deeply entrenched issues of systemic racism that have bled into our country’s infrastructure. As the administration negotiates the American Jobs Plan and its strategies on the care economy, workforce development, schools, and housing, among other priorities, we expect that these initiatives prioritize the communities most impacted by the consistent systemic failures in these areas and others.

UnidosUS supports the “Justice in Policing Act” to bring accountability to law enforcement on matters of racial profiling, police shootings, and the systemic racism that has led to disproportionate involvement in the criminal justice system for Black and brown communities.

As of April 13, 2021, CDC data showed that race/ethnicity was known for just over half (55%) of people who had received at least one dose of the vaccine. Among this group, nearly two-thirds were white (65%) and only 11% were Hispanic, signaling sharp, ongoing disparities.</td>

BENEFIT TO LATINOS

- By declaring that the vaccine will be free of charge to all people living in the United States regardless of immigration or health insurance status, the federal government eliminated key access barriers faced by Latinos.
- ARP funds will help remove other access barriers, including language, cultural, and transportation barriers, by, (1) making vaccines available in local communities by trusted providers, such as local pharmacies, community health centers, and mobile clinics, etc., and (2) through the COVID-19 Community Corps, which will mobilize a nationwide network of trusted messengers in local communities to increase confidence in and uptake of vaccines.
- By including diverse health leaders, the administration will ensure the Health Equity Task Force’s recommendations and actions are culturally responsive.

TESTING AND VACCINES

Ensure that all Americans have equitable access to COVID-19 testing and vaccines.

- ACTION TAKEN
  - Established a COVID-19 Pandemic Testing Board to coordinate promotion of COVID-19 diagnostic, screening, and surveillance testing.
  - Established the COVID-19 Health Equity Task Force to help ensure an equitable response to the pandemic.
  - $250 million for localities to partner with community-based organizations to increase the availability of COVID-19 public health information that is culturally competent and linguistically appropriate.

</tr>
<tr>
<td>✓ Established a special enrollment period until August 15 for those purchasing coverage through HealthCare.gov to ensure access to affordable coverage for the uninsured.</td>

</tr>
</tbody>

BENEFIT TO LATINOS

- ARP and Biden’s executive actions will help address the high uninsured rate among Latinos, including low-income and laid-off Latinos. This is critical, given that the pandemic has exacerbated the longstanding disparity of lack of health coverage for Latinos. In 2019, 19% of Hispanics lacked coverage, compared to 6.3% of non-Hispanic whites. Data from March 2021 showed a Latino uninsured rate of around 25%.
- There are preliminary signs that the SEP is benefiting Latinos, given that call center volume has experienced an uptick in Spanish-language calls.
- The additional funding for ACA navigators will help more Latinos access health coverage, given that Latinos are more likely to rely on assistance to enroll in or renew coverage.
- The additional funding for ACA navigators will increase the uptake of health coverage among uninsured Latinos, whose enrollment decreases in the absence of the outreach provided by navigators.

<td>NUTRITION</td>
<td>✓ ARP provides a 15% SNAP increase through September 2021; an additional $5 billion in funding for pandemic EBT; $1 billion in nutrition assistance for Puerto Rico and U.S. territories; emergency nutrition funding for low-income seniors and the WIC program; and extends pandemic EBT through the remainder of the public health emergency. ✓ The Biden administration abandoned the Trump-era plan to cut food stamps by tightening work requirements for working-age adults without children. ✓ USDA increased emergency SNAP benefits for 25 million participants who were at the SNAP maximum benefit level and received no benefit increases authorized by Congress last year.</td>
<td>1. Four million eligible Latinos do not participate in the SNAP program, signaling that steps to improve enrollment are needed, including targeted investments in culturally and linguistically competent outreach and enrollment assistance. The USDA should: 1) designate a portion of the $390 million provided by ARP for WIC outreach innovation and program modernization funding to support outreach through community-based organizations, and 2) launch a round of 100% federally funded competitive SNAP outreach grants to support outreach to low-income Latino and other under-participating groups. 2. Provide leadership, best practices, and sample outreach materials to states to ensure that state pandemic EBT plans provide benefits to all eligible immigrant families. Remove discriminatory SNAP eligibility restrictions, such as the five-year waiting period currently in place for lawfully present adults, to ensure that all who need food assistance can receive it. 3. Increase the minimum monthly SNAP benefit to $30, as reflected in the HEROES Act, to ensure Latino SNAP participants can put food on the table during this crisis.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>

BENEFIT TO LATINOS

- The SNAP increase helps nearly 40 million Americans, including at least 6.5 million Latinos, put sufficient food on the table every day.
- Since the pandemic began, an estimated 47% of Hispanic households with children have reported being food insecure, the highest percentage reported for all racial and ethnic groups. Pandemic EBT is a lifeline to these families as it provides low-income families (including those in Puerto Rico) access to food regardless of immigration status.
II. EDUCATION: SUPPORT VULNERABLE STUDENTS

POLICY PRIORITY

K-12 EDUCATION

Reopen schools safely and address the impact of the pandemic on the student learning.

ACTION TAKEN

- ARP provides $123 billion in new, flexible funds for school to reopen safely and meet students’ educational needs.
- ARP provides more than $7 billion to cover the purchase of broadband service and devices by schools and libraries for use by students, staff, and patrons.

ACTION STILL NEEDED

1. The administration should: 1) dedicate K-12 funding to prevent severe learning loss during the pandemic of the growing population of English learners (ELs), and 2) mandate data collection on how states and school districts will use these funds, to ensure accountability to students whose needs are not being met.
2. Include $2 billion for Title III in the president’s full FY2022 budget request to Congress, which he failed to include in his “skinny budget.” The nation’s five million ELs continue to fall further behind their peers without a targeted investment in Title III, the federal funding stream dedicated to advancing the education of ELs.
3. The administration should provide clear guidance to ensure state allocation of ARP education funds reach the students with the greatest needs. Although more schools have reopened full-time, only one-third of Latino students have returned in person compared to half of white students.
4. The administration must provide oversight to ensure states are meeting federal requirements to conduct statewide assessments, which will provide critical data to help us understand the extent to which COVID-19 has impacted learning for Latino students and ELs, and inform how ARP funds can be better targeted.

BENEFIT TO LATINOS

- The federal education funds will help boost schools that serve large numbers of poor children in states that have faced disproportionate state funding cuts.
- The E-Rate program will grow broadband access to the one in three Latino households that lack high speed internet.
Latino Inclusion Tracker

Policy Priority

Action Taken

- ARP included at least $20 billion to be distributed to students in higher education in the form of emergency grants to prevent hunger, homelessness, and other hardships.
- Interest and monthly payments on federally held loans were suspended through September 30, 2021.

Benefit to Latinos

- The pandemic has led to the first decline in Latino postsecondary enrollment in a decade, with 2020 seeing a 6% drop. This investment will help students meet their basic needs, a first step in reversing this troubling trend.

Action Still Needed

1. Emergency aid to college students under ARP should be extended to undocumented students and DACA-holders.
2. President Biden should use his executive authority to eliminate no less than $10k in federal student debt relief, which would also serve as economic stimulus.
3. The president should call for double the maximum federal Pell Grant to $12,990.

III. Economy: Provide Relief That Places Our Country on a Path to an Equitable Recovery

Policy Priority

Action Taken

- ARP provides $350 billion to help state, local, tribal, and territorial governments pay for unbudgeted expenses tied to the COVID-19 emergency, which will also help to prevent layoffs.

Benefit to Latinos

- State and local officials have a historic opportunity to use this substantial federal aid to help communities hit hardest by the pandemic and address the long-term inequities that have kept too many Latinos, people of color, and women from reaching their potential.

Action Still Needed

1. Strong federal guidance, tracking, and robust oversight to ensure that state and local aid reaches the communities that need it most.
2. Enforce the incentive for states to invest resources in communities most harmed by the pandemic, rather than enact state-level tax cuts.
LATINO INCLUSION TRACKER

POLICY PRIORITY

INCLUSIVE ECONOMIC RELIEF

Include Latino workers and small-business owners and their families in emergency economic relief.

ACTION TAKEN

- ARP granted $1,400 in direct stimulus payments to adults and dependents.
- ARP included $300 in enhanced unemployment benefits per week through September 6, 2021.
- ARP temporarily expands the EITC to childless workers who—prior to this bill—faced being taxed further into poverty.
- ARP temporarily increases the CTC and makes it fully refundable, ensuring that the lowest-income households can benefit no matter how little income they earn each year.
- ARP provides $50 billion in small-business aid, including funding for the Payroll Protection Program, the Economic Injury Disaster Loan Advance program, food and drinking establishments, and the Community Navigator Pilot Program.

ACTION STILL NEEDED

1. Include in future legislation the extension of stimulus cash payments to more than nine million ITIN holders, including more than 900k undocumented children (as was the case in the HEROES Act).
2. Make the EITC and CTC expansions permanent and restore eligibility for roughly 800,000 ITIN-holding children who were cut out of the CTC with the passage of the 2017 Trump tax cuts.

BENEFIT TO LATINOS

- 5.1 million Social Security Number–holding spouses and children in mixed-status families became fully eligible for cash relief under the ARP.
- The unemployment benefits will help 2.3 million Latinos who lost their jobs keep their heads above water until their national unemployment rate of 7.9% returns to pre-pandemic levels.
- The EITC expansion will reach an estimated four million childless Latino workers.
- The CTC expansion will lift 1.7 million Latino children out of poverty, reduce poverty among an additional 4.1 million, and provide the full CTC to 9.9 million people for the first time.
- The small-business emergency grants, lending, investment, and navigator program will strengthen main street small businesses in economically disadvantaged areas, including minority-owned businesses.
HOUSING RELIEF

BENEFIT TO LATINOS

- Together these provisions will help Latinos who have experienced significant housing insecurity during the pandemic. According to a March Census Bureau survey, only 39% of Latinos had high confidence that they could make next month’s mortgage payment and only 36% had high confidence they could make next month’s rent.

LATINO INCLUSION TRACKER

POLICY PRIORITY

ESSENTIAL WORKER PROTECTIONS

Stabilize and protect our immigrant and frontline workforce, and their families.

ACTION TAKEN

- Supported the passage in the House of the American Dream and Promise Act and Farmworker Modernization Act. Many of the nearly four million people who would be protected by the passage of these bills work in essential industries.
- Took executive action to preserve and fortify DACA.
- Reinstated Deferred Enforced Departure for Liberians by extending deferrals of deportation and work authorizations for Liberians until June 30, 2022.
- Announced TPS for 320,000 Venezuelans and 1,600 Burmese nationals.
- The Biden administration stopped defending lawsuits challenging the Trump-era public charge regulations. Federal courts then dismissed the government’s appeals.
- Withdrew the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development–proposed “mixed-status” rule, which, if finalized, would have put 55,000 American kids in mixed-status homes at risk of eviction.
- 100-day moratorium on deportations. While the moratorium was indefinitely enjoined in Texas, nothing in the ruling requires deportations and DHS continues its review and updates of its enforcement priorities.

ACTION STILL NEEDED

1. Beyond just delivering a bill to Congress, the administration must steadfastly advocate a divided Congress to pass USCA and other vital legislation that would establish a path to citizenship for essential workers, including the “DREAM and Promise Act,” the “Farm Workforce Modernization Act,” and the “Citizenship for Essential Workers Act.”
2. A path to citizenship for essential workers must be included in Biden’s “American Jobs Plan” recovery package.
3. Deliver on Biden’s campaign pledge to extend TPS to Haitians.

BENEFIT TO LATINOS

- The U.S. immigration system has not seen meaningful reform for 30 years. For undocumented immigrants—who on average have lived in the country for 15 years—and their 10.2 million family members, the future is tenuous.
- Legalization of the undocumented would be a good return on the investment: their households pay $79.7 billion in federal tax contributions and $41 billion in state and local tax contributions, which help to fund public schools, infrastructure repairs for roads and bridges, and the military.
IV. RACIAL EQUITY: WORK TOWARD UNITY AND HEALING

PROYECTO 20%

20% of all federal appointments and positions to be filled by Latinos.

ACTION TAKEN
- At the cabinet level, Biden has nominated Xavier Becerra (HHS), Alejandro Mayorkas (DHS), Miguel Cardona (DOE), and Isabel Guzman (SBA), totaling four out of 21 Cabinet level positions, or 15%.

BENEFIT TO LATINOS
- This is the largest number of first-term Hispanic cabinet members in U.S. history, and Becerra is the first Latino to serve as HHS secretary.
- Latinos must be appointed to the highest levels of government, driving policy that benefits our community and the United States.

ACTION STILL NEEDED
1. President Biden must ensure 20% of all hiring and appointments are Latinos, to reflect the population of the United States.
2. This means 800 of the approximately 4,000 placements made by the new president should be filled by Latinos.
3. Because appointment and hiring data is not clear or available on broader nominations, the administration needs to ensure transparency and share data publicly about Latino appointments and hires.

DATA REPORTING

Collect complete data on racial inequities.

ACTION TAKEN
- Issued an executive order establishing an equitable data working group to address the fact that many federal datasets are not disaggregated by race, ethnicity, gender, disability, income, veteran status, or other key demographic variables.
- The president’s “skinny budget” calls for $8.7 billion for the CDC to, among other things, modernize public health data collection nationwide. It also includes $153 million for the CDC’s Social Determinants of Health program to support states and territories in improving health equity and data collection for racial and ethnic populations.

BENEFIT TO LATINOS
- This will help to begin unmasking the true extent of inequities experienced by Latinos and other people of color, and to promote the development of policies needed to effect structural change.

ACTION STILL NEEDED
In his full 2022 budget to Congress this year, the president should reiterate and expand on his commitment to robust funding for data collection and disaggregation across all federal departments and programs, including health, education, and criminal justice. This information should be accessible to the public.

<td>The president’s “skinny budget” calls for significant budget increases for civil rights offices and activities across federal agencies to ensure that our laws are enforced fairly and equitably. This includes $209 million for the Department of Justice’s Civil Rights Division, Community Relations Services, and other programs; $144 million to advance equity in educational opportunity and delivery at pre-K-12 schools and institutions of higher learning; and $47.9 million for the Health and Human Services Office for Civil Rights.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>

Benefit to Latinos

- A budget that invests in full inclusion and equity results in proportionate government funding in education, health care, housing, voting, job creation, and the social safety net that benefits Latinos.
- Such investments will begin to root out discrimination and racism at federal agencies.
