The Honorable Christopher J. Dodd, Chairman
The Honorable Richard C. Shelby, Ranking Member
Members of the Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs
United States Senate
Washington, DC 20510

Dear Chairman Dodd, Ranking Member Shelby, and Committee Members:

We, the undersigned civil rights, consumer, and housing counseling organizations, write to ask members of the Senate Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs to expand the Community Development Financial Institution (CDFI) Fund’s Financial Education and Counseling pilot program when they consider the “Restoring American Financial Stability Act.” Each month, our organizations work with thousands of families who are struggling to get back on their feet. In tough economic times, hardworking families are being confronted with a new financial reality. Millions are watching their plans for the future dissolve due to unemployment, loss of income, depressed property values, foreclosure, or bankruptcy. To get back on the path to financial security, they need relevant, real-time advice from professionals who can offer objective guidance on a range of fiscal questions.

The expansion of the CDFI Fund’s Financial Education and Counseling pilot program will help to support community-based organizations offering financial counseling, allowing them to hire staff and provide a much-needed service to areas that have been hit hard by the recession. This is especially helpful in communities of color that have been disproportionately affected by foreclosures and unemployment. Counselors will help families open bank accounts, build credit, identify an affordable car loan or credit card, and recover from a foreclosure or bankruptcy. Specifically, an amendment to expand the Fund should:

- Provide a funding stream for one-on-one financial counseling. Individual advice tailored to the family’s circumstances is the best way to change how they make financial decisions.

- Make financial counseling available to families at financial risk. The recession has not only weakened household balance sheets, it has left families reliant on high-cost credit and vulnerable to financial scams and deceptive lenders. Rather than allowing history to repeat itself, families need access to sound financial guidance that sets people back on the path to a fiscally secure future.
- Provide support to approved 501(c)(3) organizations experienced in dealing with persons at financial risk. Community-based organizations are well known in the community and a trusted source of advice, with the ability to offer culturally competent and bilingual services where needed.

Our national economy will not recover until the balance sheets of families are stabilized. Rather than leave them in a position to be taken advantage of again, Congress must give them the tools to make sound financial decisions and avoid debt traps. Should you have any questions, please contact Janis Bowdler, Deputy Director, Wealth-Building Policy Project, National Council of La Raza (NCLR), at (202) 776-1748 or jbowdler@nclr.org. We look forward to working with you further on this crucial issue.
